Migration Readiness Assessment by Swisscom

How to plan your Migrations?

Swisscom follows the AWS Cloud Adoption Framework (CAF) to help organizations develop and execute efficient and effective plans for their Cloud Adoption journey. AWS CAF is built based on real customer experiences and thousands of organizations around the world who have successfully migrated their workloads to the cloud, relying on AWS CAF to guide their efforts. The framework organizes guidance into six areas of focus, called perspectives. Each perspective is used to create work streams that uncover gaps in existing skills and processes, which are recorded as inputs. The key elements for any migration are the Business, People and Governance which focusses on the business capabilities while the Platform, Security and Operations Perspectives focus on the technical capabilities.

What is MRA?

Migration Readiness Assessment (MRA) is a CAF-aligned process to evaluate the current state of your cloud journey and helps prepare your business for a larger migration to the cloud. Through the MRA process we evaluate existing organizational, technical and capability gaps and hurdles against the CAF perspectives and recommend activities to mitigate those gaps prior to migration. The MRA process is enriched by the experience that Swisscom has with Enterprise cloud migrations. We believe that this early evaluation of readiness, prior to migration kick off, mitigates risk, reduces delays, and costly overruns in a migration project.
