

Manual processing and limited insights are the top two frustrations of finance teams. They don't just slow companies down, but they curb their ability to adapt, make decisions, and act fast.

Thanks to Yokoy Spend Management Solution, finance teams can now automate and manage repetitive, costly spend management tasks all in one place.

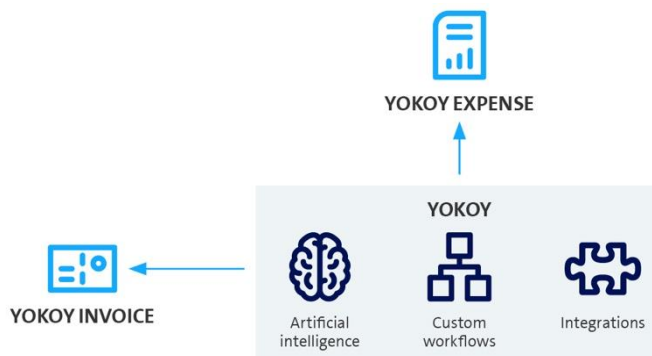

Manual expense processing frustrates finance professionals because it takes time and it's prone to unnecessary errors. Not only is this annoying, it's also expensive and it can cause serious problems during auditing. Moreover, supplier invoices make up almost 90% of spending in businesses, which makes transparency and control crucial in this area. Yokoy Expense removes all these frustrations by automating the expense process, so finance teams don't have to waste resources on manual receipt processing and corrections. Yokoy Invoice, on the other hand, helps finance teams fully automate their accounts payable process, so they can easily zoom in on the finer details and stay grounded in the bigger picture.
